

2025 24hr Teton Ogre Race Update #2 - 05.26.2025

Hello 2025 24-hour Ogres!

It won't be long now until we set you loose on the course in the amazing Birch Creek Valley to go find some checkpoints! In the meantime, we wanted to reach out with another race update, since race weekend will be here before we know it. There's a lot of important information below, so please read thoroughly—and please make sure your teammates have read through everything as well.

This is the last pre-race update until Tuesday, June 10th, when we will send a preliminary course outline, (which will help immensely with your final race prep and organizing).

IMPORTANT TO-DOS BEFORE THE RACE:

- Make sure ALL of your teammates are signed up, and inform us ASAP of any roster changes. There are still a few teams who are missing teammates—please make sure all of your teammates have signed up individually. Last day to register is May 31st at 11pm!
- Read through the Gear List and Race Details page carefully. If you've recently signed up, please also look over Update #1 which was sent out at the end of April. A successful adventure race depends largely on how organized you are beforehand. It's never too early to start going through your gear and thinking through your race plans and strategies. If you don't see the info you are looking for here, chances are it's on the website.
- Check your email on Tuesday, June 10th for the FINAL pre-race update.

WEATHER, CONDITIONS, AND WATER ON COURSE

Weather can be extremely variable in mid June, so having good options as far as staying warm and dry will be important. Keep an eye on the forecast in the week+ leading up to the race, and we will pass along any final words of advice regarding weather and course conditions in our final race update on June 10th.

We also want to emphasize that given the more desert-y terrain of this year's race, water is pretty much non-existent on course. We will have a couple locations with known water for purification marked on your race maps, but in short, this means that you need to be prepared to carry a LOT of water, and start the race well-hydrated, especially if it's hot out! Over these next couple weeks, consider training with a heavier pack and try to get a good sense of how much water your body needs. Find some good electrolytes and try them out while training.

SCHEDULE

Saturday, June 14th, Birch Creek Campground (see Camping and Race Headquarters Map below)

Note: This is a fairly tight timeline and time will go fast once you get your maps! Plan to show up to check-in as ready to race as possible!

10:45am: pre-race meeting (mandatory for all 24hr racers)

12:00pm* sharp: race start NEW START TIME!

*Please Note there will be a short 2.5 mile bike ride on your own time from Race HQ to the race start. Please plan accordingly in order to arrive in time for the race start.

Sunday, June 15th

12:00pm: finish cut-off time. Awards and post-race celebration to follow.

TRACKERS

We will have live GPS tracking once again this year! Here's the link (tracking will go live once the race starts). Tell your friends and family!

BIRCH CREEK VALLEY AND ITS RICH HISTORY

This year's race location is remote, rugged, and spectacular! There are no nearby restaurants, gas stations, or shops, and cell service is very limited. Plan to be self-sufficient, ditch the screens, and embrace the beautiful remoteness of the valley!

The area is rich in history, with human occupation tracing back more than 10,000 years, when mammoths, camels, and giant bison roamed. For thousands of years the valley provided important hunting grounds for the forerunners of today's Northern Shoshone. In the early and mid 1800s, trapping brought white settlers to the valley. In 1877, a band of Nez Perce men, women, and children led by Chief Joseph traveled through the valley along a perilous journey as they tried to escape persecution. (Read more about the Nez Perce Trail here). In the 1890s, the Birch Creek Valley experienced a short but prosperous mining boom, of which you will see remains throughout the course.

DRIVING DIRECTIONS

Make sure you can make it to Race HQ without cell service. Written directions are below. Plan to fill up with gas in either Leadore, Mud Lake, or Arco, depending on which direction you are coming from.

Approaching from to north via Leadore, ID:

- From Leadore, continue south on Hwy28 for 49.2mi. Turn right on Birch Creek Campground Middle Access Road. Go .4mi and look for Ogre HQ on the left.

Approaching from the south or east via Mud Lake, ID:

- From Mud Lake, continue one mile west on Hwy33. Take a slight right onto Hwy28 and continue 25.8mi. Turn left onto Birch Creek Campground Middle Access Road. Go .4mi and look for Ogre HQ on the left.

Approaching from the west via Howe, ID (no gas in Howe, fill up in Arco):

- From Howe, go 8.2mi east on Hwy33, then take a left onto Hwy22. Go 13.4mi and take a left onto Hwy28. Go 10.2mi and turn left onto Birch Creek Campground Middle Access Road. Go .4mi and look for Ogre HQ on the left.

CAMPING INFORMATION

Camping is not reservable, but we do have a couple group areas reserved and there are lots of other dispersed sites available—there will be plenty of space for everyone! Please see our Camping and Race Headquarters Map below and look for signs when you arrive indicating our two reserved group sites. You do not have to camp solely in these group sites, but if you do not find a site elsewhere, there will be space for you! Potable water is available at the far north end of the campground, and there are vault toilets throughout the campground north of Race HQ.

THANKS TO OUR RAD SPONSORS!

We couldn't put on the Teton Ogre without our amazing sponsors:
